International Study Experiences:

Exploring Jamaican Arts and Culture – June 2015

In partnership with the Edna Manley College of Visual and Performing Arts in Kingston, Jamaica, I focused on arts and cultural practices in schools, colleges, museums and cultural institutions in Jamaica. Meeting with local artists, ambassadors, educators and students, I explored and analyzed policies, practices, content and pedagogies of the arts in Jamaica in comparison and contrast with our understandings of such in the United States.

Africa and the Diaspora; Southern Africa: Culture, Society and History – Summer 2014

Through lectures, excursions, projects and a variety of field experiences in South Africa, Zimbabwe and Zambia, including meeting with educators, artists and community organizers, I explored the cultural and historical importance that have played a significant role in the history and politics of their time and reflect the general social context of life in Southern Africa.
